THE RECORD

BROOKLYN, 8: PHILADELPHIA, 6.

PRILADELPHIA, June 21 .-- The Champion were 3 to the bad when they went to bat in their half of the ninth. Then after Sheckard, batting for Nops, had been retired, Jones doubled and Keeler, Jennings and Kelly singled, tying the score. Then Bernhard was brought in. Having no chance to warm up he was rather wild, making two wild pitches, giving a base on balls and being hit for two singles. This netted the Brooklyns five runs and the game. Attendance,

Boston, 5; New Yorks in last place by administering another defeat at the Polo Grounds vesterday afternoon. The locals fielded well enough, their only error being the misjudgment of a foul fly by Hickman, but they could not hat the curves of Dineen. The big Boston twirler let them down with a total of three singles, two of which were contributed by Davis. One of these figured in the only tally registered by the locals. Dineen started off by giving a base on balls to Smith. He stole second, took third on Van Haltren's out and scored on Davis's liner to left. In the fourth Davis led off with another single, but got no further than second base. Bowerman made a hit in the fifth and stole second, but he, too, was left. After that the New Yorks only got one man to first and that was in the eighth, when Lowe fumbled Hawley's grounder. The Bostons, on the other hand, had no trouble in landing on Hawley at the right time, and but for the fact that they tried to do too much on the bases their score would have been larger. They played the "hit and run" game in good style, and it is evident they have profited by their four recent defeats at the hands of the Champions. Stall's home run in the fourth was a line drive under the right field ropes. Selbach played a fine game in left field, taking care of six flies and making one assist. Aside from pitching a grand game, Dineen fielded his position in style and pounded out two singles. The score:

New York.

O'Day also said that in the course of his remarks the magnate said he voted for O'Day when the umpires were appointed at the National Learne meeting and that he "wanted a run for his money." To the credit of O'Day it must be said that the lecture he received from the magnate was not allowed to interfere with his judgment when the Boston and Brooklyn teams met again on the following day.

HARVARD OVERWHELMED. Twelve Thousand Spectators See the Crimson Nine Beaten by the B. 'e.

CAMBRIDGE, June 21 .- Before a remarkable crowd numbering almost twelve thousand persons Harvard received at the hands of Yale one of the worst defeats in her baseball history on So diers' Field this afternoon. The Yale team began business in the first inning, and with hard hitting, coupled with stupid playing on the part of the Harvard team, the Elis piled up four runs, lead which Harvard was never in balling distance of, owing to their inability to hit Bobertson when it meant beating Yale, and owing to the utter inability of the two Harvard freshmen pitchers and Stillman to keep the Yale batters from hitting the ball to all parts of the field.

There was a large attendance of Harvard men present and they backed up their team royally, but to little purpose. The Yale men had their batting clothes on and rapped the ball out, while the Harvard nine after a desperate attempt to rally in the fourth inning fell into a state of coma from which they never recovered. Capt. Reid left the field in the eighth inning and hope for Harvard went with him. Milne succeeded him and caught a fine game. MacDonald, who was in the box for Harvard for the last two innings. was betterable to stop the Yale men from scoring than anybody else had been, not giving a run to them. This was mainly due to the difference in his delivery from other pitchers. As an exibition of baseball the game was mis

XAVIER COLLEGE A. A. GAMES. J. J. Moynahan a Triple Winner-Close Bicycle

J. J. Moynahan was the hero of the Xavier College A. A.'s spring games at Celtic Park yes terday afternoon. He first showed his quality in the half-mile run. Moynahan, who was the virtual scratch man, with forty yards start, romped home. A well-judged finish placed the one-mile handicap to his credit, and he wound up the day's work by winning the 440-yard dash from the 15-yard mark in 54.4-5 seconds. Although fine weather favored the games, the aprincers were at a disadvantage, as the short-distance races were run against a brisk wind. E. L. Sullivan, a "Prep" boy, won the two bicycle races to which he was eligible, but in the one-mile scratch he cut the finish so fine that the judges declared it a dead heat between Sullivan and J. E. Donnelly. On riding over Sullivan won with ease. Summaries:

Tom Sharkey still rules the favorite over Gus Ruhlin. Friends of the "Akron Glant" are backing him on all sides and it looks as though backing him on all sides and it looks as though the odds will be even money at the ringside. Jim Corbett, who is a great admirer of Ruhlin, will second the latter and in conjunction with B.lly Madden advise Gus how to fight. If Ruh-lin wins he will challenge Jeffries. Jim Wasely, who picks Sharkey to win, wants to wager $2,000 on the result. Sam Fitzpatrick has a commis-sion of $2,000 to place on Sharkey. Martin Dowling has a similar amount to place on the ex-sailor.

YALE'S UNSATISFACTORY TRIAL. Coach Gallandet Not Pleased With the Work of the Elis on the Thames.

GALES FERRY, June 21 .- All the crews of Yale and Harvard went on the river this morning and again this afternoon, the coaches realizing that the oarsmen will have to put in some hard practice this week in order that they may show their mettle in the races next Thursday. Yale's 'Varsity boat has not had a shift for several days and the present order of rowing will likely continue with Niedecken at 3. This eight went over the four miles this morning before 10 o'clock and were credited with covering the distance in less than 21 minutes. The exact time was not taken by outside watches, as there was no intimation that the crew was on the fiver for a speed test. A stiff northwest wind aided it down the stream and the tide was also running out. The waterand the tide was also running out. The watermanship was very ragged at times. Coach Gallaudet said to-day that the trial was not satisfactory, the boat running very unsteadily.

At Harvard's quarters the oarsmen were very anxious this afternoon to learn the time made by the Yale crew in the morning. Coach Biorrow, commenting on the trial, said:
"Yale ought to have rowed the course with the crew she has in several seconds less than twentyone minutes. With the wind and tide prevailing a shell could sail down the river and make fast time."

one minutes. With the wind and the prevaling a shell could sail down the river and make fast time."

The Yale freshman eight are pegging away with the same crew they have had since they came here to train. Hooker was in at stroke in the 'Varsity four again to-day and Auchincios was at Hooker's old position at 2. Harvard's freshman boat had Greenough at stroke again to-day, but Coach Goodrich says the change is only temporary, as Roberts will be put back at stroke just as soon as he recovers from a slight indisposition. Tilton was at stroke in the Harvard 'Varsity four-oar to-day and it is probable that Bancroft, whom Tilton replaced, will not row in the boat.

Harvard's two eights were lined up to-night off the boathouse, and Coach Storrow let them have a brush for half a mile. The 'Varsity crew soon showed its superiority and left the Freshies astern from the start.

The entire course has been flagged with red, white and blue colors and the coxswains can now see in their practice pulls inst where their respective lane will be on race day. Judge W. K. Townsend of the United States Court is among the visitors at Yale's quarters.

B DGERS AT POUGHKEEPSIE. Wisconsin's Crews Will Practise on the Hudson River To-day.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 21 .- The Wisconsin crews arrived this afternoon. Their trip East was without incident. The shell preceded them and after their arrival the boats were towed to the boathouse, where they will be rigged to-night in time for practice tomorrow. The Badgers are big fellows. The Varsity crew is nearly all composed of seasoned timber.

The Columbia eights had the usual practice to-day. The cedar boat built by Webb was tried by the 'Varsity crew. It was rigged according to Hanlan's ideas and proved satisfactory. Both Columbia eights did good work on the water to-night. They rowed about eight miles in stretches. The youngsters had two or three scrape with the 'Varsity boat, one of about a mile, in which they held their own. Both crews held their stroke accurately without hurrying and the boats moved their own. Both crews held their stroke accurately without hurrying and the boats moved very smoothly, but little hang between strokes being noticeable. The practice this morning under a boiling sun with the thermometer at 90 was hot work for the Columbia boys and to add to their discomfort the water was choppy. The crews rowed over to the west side, where they found comparatively smooth water under fhe shore.

They rowed by fours to a point half a mile above the bridge, which took them two miles from the boathouse. There Hanlan told them to turn about and row back at an easy pace. They started off at not over a 25-stroke, but presently the freshmen, slyly accelerating their stroke, began to creep away from the senior crew, although Hanlan kept cautioning everybody to take it easy. The Varsity paid no attention to the freshmen and going under the bridge they were two lengths in the lead. Then Capt. Mackay winked at Corswain Bogue and at the same time began to hit up the stroke. The speed of the boat increased and soon it was gaining on the freshmen, who in turn raised their stroke to about thirty-two or three. Hanlan saw that the boys were bound to scrap in spite of him, and let them go for a mile and a half while he kept his megaphone in constant use. At the end of the mile and a half the boats were even, and the 'Varsity pulled back to the float in high spirits over the ease with which they had vanquished the ambitious youngsters.

Cornell Crews Bace Two Miles.

and its last race with the freshman crew this afternoon and the result was very satisfactory It was the last day of senior week, and Courtney, yielding to the requests of old graduates allowed a special steamer to go out to watch the practice. He also was perfectly willing for the first time this season to let the time be themselves of the opportunity to watch the themselves of the opportunity to watch the race.

At 6:30 o'clock the crews got into position and started quickly. Before ten strokes had been rowed the 'Varsity boat forged ahead and it kept gradually increasing its lead. Both crews rowed a very high stroke, but the form of the 'Varsity eight was far superior to that of the youngsters. At the finish line of the two-mile race the 'Varsity was two lengths ahead. The time was 10 minutes 42 seconds, which was very satisfictory to Courtney and every one else. The Cornell launch has already left for Poughkeepsie and the crews will leave on Saturday morning.

Hanian Appointed Head Coach of Columbia

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 21 .- The managers of Columbia's rowing interests held an official meeting at the Nelson House yesterday. Among those present was Francis S. Bangs, who came as the representative of the alumni. At the meeting William A. Merkleham, '86, reat the meeting whitain A. Merklenam, so, re-signed as head coach of the crews and Edward Hanian was selected to take full charge of the carsmen for the rest of the season. The former professional champion will begin at once to change the details of the stroke now being employed, and will try to accustom the men to new conditions by the time of the intercollegiate race on June 30.

Erne and McGovern to Pight at 128 Pounds. After a long time of dickering articles o agreement have been signed for a fight be tween Frank Erne, the lightweight champion and Terry McGovern, the featherweight champion, to take place at the Twentieth Century A. C. in Madison Square Garden on July 16 A. C. in Madison Square Garden on July 16. The pair will clash for ten rounds at 128 pounds for 60 per cent. of the gate receipts. Erne must whip Terry in ten rounds or lose the winning end of the purse. Erne, so the sports think, is rather foolish in making the match, for at 128 pounds he will be decidedly weak. Time of weighing in is to be at the ringside. The match will inaugurate the opening of the club. The management does not expect any police interference as the organization has been properly incorporated.

Cricket.

The Manhattan and Kings County Cricket clubs had an interesting game yesterday at Prospect Park. the Manhattans winning by the narrow margin of the Manhattans winning by the narrow margin of eleven runs. The score was 125 to 115. George Williams was in fine form with the bat for Kings County, and before being disposed of for a spiendld inning of 54, he gave the Manhattan fielders plenty of leather chasting. Williams and C. Hunter made a fine stand for the first wicket, the latter putting on 31. The batting of the Manhattans was even, and six men got into double figures, with G. C. Boxill leading with a well played 33 and F. J. Prendergast following with 20.

Belle of Lexington showed a world of speed for seven furlongs in the handleap yesterday and up to that stage looked like landing the odds of 10 to 1. But she curled up in the stretch and dropped back to oth blace.

The riding honors at Sheepshead Bay yesterday were evenly distributed between Ballard, Turner, Henry, McJoynt, Spencer and Booker, Maher and Ransch were in evidence with two seconds each, while O'Connot. Rutter, Odom and Littlefield squeezed into the money in their respective races. W. C. Whitney's maiden two year old colt, Luke Ward, by Luke Blackburn-Maud Ward, ran an impressive race yesterday and, with a more vigorous ride, would have finished in the money. He was interfered with a couple of times in the stretch and Odom has not strength enough to help him.

Odom has not strength chough to help him.

Killashandra, the noted filly by Goldinch—Connemara, that was purchased under rather romantic circumstances by Sidney Payet last year, made her three-year-old debut in the Whitney jacket yesterday. She ran third in Age Swift atakes with little Odom rolling around in the saddle. This boy seems to need nursing. He is a finished horseman and as much above suspiction as Cæsar's wife, but he lacks strength and nerve at critical moments.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Betting is to be permitted at Washington Park on Berby Day, but bookmakers have been instructed to use only handbooks. Last night in my of the bookmakers who had applied for privileges at the track visited the directors as the clubnouse and talked matters over. It was finally agreed to adopt the system in vogue at the tracks in New York. When Chief of Police Kipley was informed to day that the New York system would be used to seemed perfectly satisfied. He said if the rules were strictly obeyed there would be no interference on the part of the police.

the acceptance cast a serious reflection on the stability of seasoned thoroughbreds Two owners pluckily challenged the theory that three-year-olds cannot go a route in older company and they enjoyed the satisfaction of running first and second. Sir Fitzhugh won the race at the remunerative odds of 8 to 1, beating the second choice, Post Haste, a length and a half. Bangor was played from 6 to 5 to 9 to 10, but ran very disappointingly and staggered in third. The result, it is hoped, will induce owners of three-year-olds to develop horses that can stay as well as sprint.

The solitary stake feature on the card was The Swift, with $1,500 added, for three-yearolds at seven furlongs. Of the nine colored on the programme, Lady Uncas was the only one to decline the issue. August Belmont's Rayon d'Or gelding Brigadier looked to be in an easy spot with the full allowances, and so much money was invested on him that the tumbled from 3 to 1 to 8 to 5. The Morris Park contingent played Contestor confidently and they cashed, as the son of Galore sprinted through his field from a bad position in the first furlong and won in a mild drive by a length and a half from the favorite. After the flag dropped Tabor ran into a pocket with Gold Or and yanked him back suddenly. Then he decided there was no use in going on again, but the stewards disagreed with him, and he is not likely to repeat the manœuvre. Meanwhile, those who neglected to investigate the facts, as usual blamed the starter.

Oliver Mc. found a proposition to his liking it the first race of the day and he won easily from Buffoon, who was ridden out hard to beat Tinge

Buffoon, who was ridden out hard to beat Tinge and Einer, these three being only necks apart. Prince of Melrose graduated cleverly out of the maiden two-year-old class in the second race, while the favorite, Beau Gallant, had a hard time beating Minion for the place.

The handicap at one mile, which followed, locked to be one of W. S. Vosburgh's happiest efforts and three of the nine acceptors went to the post on practically even terms. Blueaway closed a slight favorite over Decanter and Greyfeld, but the pair beat him soundly. Decanter winning, with something to spare, by a length. At a first glance, the noted Belmont winner. Ildrim, seemed to be thrown in at 115 pounds, but as a matter of fact, he carried four pounds over the scale, while the others had from two to thirty-four pounds off. This may account for the fancy prices offered against Kingston's handsome son, but as the race was run the bockmakers might have taken greater liberties. Jockey Neary seemed satisfied when he passed the outsider, Big Gun, and rated along to the stretch. Then he let lidrim down and the colt sprinted through into second place, but dropped back again in the hast fifty yards and wound up fourth.

It was a disastrous day for the plunging element, as the only successful favorite was Handwork, Rogers & Rose's Hanover colt, who won the fifth race at prohibitive odds of to 3. Handwork came down the Futurity course four lengths ahead of his field in 1:123-6. Summary:

A typical summer day smiled on the Coney Island Jockey Club meeting yesterday and the patronage attracted was on a liberal scale. Owners were in a more sportsmanlike frame of mind than on the previous day and soratches were so few that large fields turned out in every event except the last. This was an event at one mile and a half over turf and the acceptance cast a serious reflection

But a heavy track has wrought a wondrous change, and there are many who believe the coit has a chance if the Washington Park track is heavy on Saturday. New Survey of the Speedway Shows Original Measurements to Be Accurate.

Horsemen who have attributed the remarkable time made by some of the trotters and pacers on the Speedway to a supposed mistake in setting out the distance posts along the road will have to look further for the solution of the mystery. An expert engineer resurveyed the driveway on Wednes-day and found the distance between the quarter posts to be a full quarter of a mile in each case. One of the posts was about fifteen inches out of the way, but the error in measurement operated in favor of Father Time, not in favor of the horses. The old posts are to be replaced by new ones, so placed that the end of the halfmile speeding ground north of Washington Bridge will be near the point of rocks on the incline toward the bridge. Visitors to the Speedway who go by way of the side-hill park at Washington Bridge will now find new steps leading down the bluff, workmen having this week done away with the toboggan slide at that point. Baylight has been withdrawn from training and is on the Speedway again. George A. Cole man has entered the big bay gelding in the wagon race for 2:25 trotters to be decided at man has entered the big bay gelding in the wagon race for 2:25 trotters to be decided at the matinée of the Road Drivers' Association at the Guttenburg track to-morrow. He may start in the free-for-all race also. Coleman introduced a new pacer of note at Speedway Park yesterday. The newcomer is the bay or brown mare Libby C., by W. P. She gained a record of 2:18½ in the New England Circuit last year. Coleman is confident that she can beat any horse on the road and he is lying in wait for Dariel, 2:07½; Jack, 2:12¼, Laura W. and other fast ones.

The indications now are that The Abbot, 2:06¼, the unbeaten free-for-ail trotter of 1899 will be forced into the exhibition class in the coming campaign. No trotting association in the Grand Circuit has yet announced a free-for-ail race, and it is saic that none will be opened this year. The fastest class thus far is the 2:08 class, from which The Abbot is barred by his record. If an opportunity to race him is not afforded the great horse will probably be fitted for an attempt to beat the record of Alix, 2:03¾. Not a few horsemen believe The Abbot has a fishting chance to accomplish the feat under favorable conditions. Geers drove him a half in 1:02½ at Louisville the other day, and on dismounting from the sulky complained that the track was slow. If The Monk, 2:08¾, stands training he and The Abbot are to be hooked to pole and driven to beat the champion team record, 2:12¼.

The first notable stallion races of the year are scheduled for the Fourth of July. Creecous, 2:07¼, and Tommy Britton, 2:08, will meet in an exhibition race at the new mile track in Pittsburg on that day, while the Goshen pacers, John R. Gentry, 2:00½, and Joe Patchen, 2:01¼, are billed to race at Lima, Ohio, on the same afternoon. Tommy Britton has trotted a part of a mile at a 2:00 gait or faster in his work at Chicago this season. Cresceus is said to be coming to his speed gradually, and he has made no fast moves as yet. Patchen and Gentry are reported to be in fine form. Both horses were shippe

A Hot Free-for-all Race at Mineola

There was a horse race at the Mineola track even the veteran followers of the light harness horse were roused and kept guessing until A S. Rowland's little black trotting mare had won the free-for-all class. It was far and away the race of the day, and although the times were slow the finishes were of a character to excite the most blase and the merest novice Even the summer girls from Long Island towns who were there in great numbers, forgot to gossip when the trotters and pacers passed under the wire close together. There were five starters in the race, three pacers and two trotters. King Chimes, by Chimes, who has marks at both the trot and "sidewheel" gait, was picked to win. He was entered to trot and captured the first heat quite handily by half a length. In the second heat third. Time. 1:2054.

at a standstill. Dan ratches won the heat by a length.

In the seventh heat Wilkes again led all the way, Davis letting his horse dget too far behind. He moved up with the same great whirl toward the end, but was nearly a length behind at the wire. After the sixth heat there were a number of protests that resulted in an exchange of blows between two of the drivers at the end of the contest.

blows between two of the drivers at the end of the contest.

The racing before the free for all was only fair, the quality of the entries not being up to the mark of former years. It was announced by the judges that the meet at Lynbrook had been declared off because the entries did not fill. Summaries:
